Our weekend getaway to Langebaan from 13th March to 16th March 2025 was nothing short of delightful, with stunning weather and a hint of wind that made the experience even more enjoyable. The caravan park was the perfect spot for a relaxing weekend, offering both a sense of adventure and comfort.

Thursday:

We arrived late afternoon, and after setting up our caravans, the group gathered to catch up. It was a lovely way to unwind, reconnect, and set the tone for the weekend ahead.

Friday:

The vibe was laid-back, and everyone was excited to spend some quality time together. The evening was filled with good music, and some members even had a go at singing along, creating a jovial atmosphere. Some cooked and some bought take outs just enjoying a chilled gathering.

Saturday:

Saturday morning gave us the option of a relaxed start. Some members chose to head out for a leisurely breakfast, while others decided to explore the area. Langebaan is changing rapidly, with new developments and growth, so there was plenty to discover and enjoy. As the sun set, our host provided delicious sides to accompany any proteins they brought for the braai.

Despite the West Coast Race happening that weekend, which typically brings large crowds, the camp wasn't fully booked, leaving us with ample space to enjoy the weekend without feeling cramped. The combination of good food, music, and great company made for an unforgettable Saturday night.

Sunday: morning began with an Indaba, allowing us to reflect on the weekend and share our thoughts. However, due to prior commitments, we decided to head home a bit earlier than planned. Before leaving, some of us met up with friends, ensuring we were home in time to watch the much-anticipated Liverpool vs.

Newcastle game. Unfortunately, Liverpool lost, but it was clear that Newcastle had been due for a win for a long time. Despite the disappointing result, it didn't take away from the overall positive vibe of the weekend.

All in all, it was a fantastic weekend away at Langebaan. The weather, the company, and the mix of relaxation and exploration made for a memorable time. We left with great memories and are already looking forward to our next caravan adventure!
