De Hollandsche Molen Camp Site: Near Franschhoek

16-18 JANUARY 2026

Our campers rolled in around midday on Friday, 16 January, ready for a relaxing weekend away. Tents went up around the vans, conversations flowed, and the evening wrapped up with a cosy braai around the boma — a slightly chilly summer night adding its own charm.

Saturday brought cool weather, perfect for slow strolls through the campsite and long chats under the trees. Brenda spoiled everyone later in the afternoon with a delicious cheese-and-biscuits platter.

Freddy and Pearl took a scenic drive to check on the fires near Franschhoek, while the rest of the group settled in socialising and catching up.

The campers settled in around the boma for another evening braai. The cold and wind encouraged an early night, although some rowdy neighbours did disturb the peace a little.

Sunday arrived with sunshine and a much-welcomed warmer weather. After the morning meeting, Johanna, Mark, and Nigel treated everyone to refreshing fruit salad and ice cream. No one seemed eager to rush off — campers packed up slowly, enjoying the last bit of calm before heading home.

Another memorable weekend filled with good company, good food, and the simple joy of being outdoors.
