Pinnacle Rock

#12

The Pinnacle Rock is a huge quartz rock that shoots up from the ground, reaching about 30 meters high. This standalone rock towers over the thick natural forest of Driekop Gorge, showing off nature's odd creations and the special beauty of South Africa.

Berlin Falls

#13

These falls tumble down in a single drop for some 80 metres, or about 260 feet, before crashing dramatically into a round basin that is an irresistible jade colour. Seeing the green waters set off by the red cliffs around them is something quite unforgettable and is best enjoyed from the observation platform above.

Mac Mac Falls

#14

The Mac Mac Falls stands as the crown jewel of The Sabie Waterfalls Route, making it an essential stop for visitors. Sabie boasts the highest concentration of waterfalls in southern Africa, and Mac Mac Falls is widely considered the most spectacular among them. Its twin cascades dramatically plunge approximately 70 meters into the deep gorge below, creating a breathtaking natural display.
